"Who is that trip-trapping over my bridge?"

This week our special traditional story has been, 'The Three Billy Goats Gruff'. The children have enjoyed taking on the role of the goats and trip-trapping over the bridge in our outdoor classroom! The small world area has been a popular spot this week too as the children have explored retelling the story.

We had a visit from the grumpy old Troll on Tuesday and had lots of fun asking him some questions! The children then designed their very own trolls and thought of some super words to describe them!

Next week we will be moving on to a new traditional story: The Gingerbread Man

Library

You will have noticed that your child came home with a library book this week. From now on, children will visit our school library every Wednesday. Please ensure your child's library book is in their book bag on a Wednesday, ready to swap for a new one! We hope you enjoy sharing these stories together at home.

Chinese New Year

Next Wednesday is Chinese New Year and we are entering the year of the snake. The children are going to be learning a little about this festival next week. There are lots of celebrations happening locally so if you attend any of these we would love to see some photographs on Seesaw.

Reminders

We have noticed that some children are not reading their reading books at home as there are no comments in their home-school diaries. Please ensure that you spend a little time every day listening to your child read. Little and often is best!

Please also check (and empty) your child's book bag every day - thank you!
